

Jonathan Rick
 English 394 (1801): Business Writing
 Spring 2024
 Wednesday, 6:30 – 9:10 P.M.
 Tawes 1105

---

Here's Everything You Need to Know About English 394: Business Writing

Schedule

Date	Theme	Topics	Read These Before Class	Homework Due
Jan. 24.	Writing 101	Course Introduction and Myths and Maxims	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Syllabus and Course Documents*</li> <li>2. “Grammar Is Credibility”: Why You Must Learn When to Use a Comma</li> </ol>
Jan. 31	Writing 101	Myths and Maxims (Continued)	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. How to Email Your Professor*</li> <li>2. Why You Should Always Read the Fine Print</li> <li>3. If You're Taking a 300-Level English Course, You Should Know These Grammar Rules</li> </ol>	► Syllabus Feedback
Feb. 7	Branding	LinkedIn and Cover Letters	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. The Cover-Letter Formula That Skyrocketed My Interviews From 0% to 55%</li> <li>2. I Read 500 Cover Letters for Entry-Level Media Jobs*</li> <li>3. Cover Letters Are Hard to Write — But This Template Makes It a Breeze*</li> </ol>	► Myths and Maxims

Feb. 14	Branding	Résumés	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Show Me the Numbers!</li> <li>2. Delete These 9 Things From Your Résumé</li> <li>3. 17 Reasons Why This Is an Excellent Résumé*</li> </ol>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▶ Syllabus Feedback (Revision)</li> <li>▶ SWOT Analysis</li> </ul>
Feb. 21	Conferences			<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▶ Myths and Maxims (Revision)</li> </ul>
Feb. 28	Everyday Skills	Numbers	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. You Can't Spell "Numbers" Without "Numb"*</li> <li>2. How Expert Explainers Put a Mind-Boggling Supercomputer Into Human Terms</li> </ol>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▶ SWOT Analysis (Revision)</li> <li>▶ Branding Portfolio</li> </ul>
Mar. 6	Everyday Skills	Email	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. SEND: Why People Email So Badly and How to Do It Better*</li> <li>2. Why You Should Always Be Extra Polite in Your Emails</li> </ol>
Mar. 13	Framing and Packaging	Web Writing and Visual Aids	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Use This One Simple Trick to Make People Actually Read What You Write</li> <li>2. How Your Work Looks Can Be As Important As What It Says</li> <li>3. A Simple Way to Make Your Boss Like Your Writing More</li> </ol>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▶ Branding Portfolio (Revision)</li> </ul>
Mar. 20	Conferences
Mar. 27	Framing and Packaging	Headlines	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Newspapers Are Still Putting Boring Headlines on Amazing Stories Like the Jamie Gilt Shooting. Why?*</li> </ol>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▶ E-Portfolio</li> </ul>

Apr. 3	Presenting	PowerPoint	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. How Apple Presenters Create Slides That Tell Stories in 3 Seconds or Less</li> <li>2. Lots of Little Things You Can Do to Make Your Slides More Pleasing to the Eye*</li> </ol>
Apr. 10	Presenting	PowerPoint (Continued) and Public Speaking	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. The One Investment Warren Buffett Says Will Change Your Life (And It's Not a Stock)</li> </ol>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▶ Presentation Blurb</li> <li>▶ E-Portfolio (Revision)</li> </ul>
Apr. 17	Career Advice	Job Searching	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. The Secret to Landing a Job and Lifting 300 Pounds*</li> </ol>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▶ Presentation Blurb (Revision)</li> </ul>
Apr. 24	Career Advice	Guest Speakers
May 1	Presenting	Presentations		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▶ Presentation</li> <li>▶ Presentation Peer Reviews<sup>1</sup></li> </ul>

* Most of the readings are short; those marked with an asterisk are longer.

---

<sup>1</sup> Peer review #1 is due before class. Peer review #2 is due after class (no later than 10 P.M.).

Why You're Here

The Short Version

In today's globalized age, few things can differentiate you better than polished communication skills. And yet, these skills are increasingly scarce. This course will survey the fundamentals of professional communication generally, and business writing specifically, across six themes:

Theme	Topics
1. Writing 101	Myths and Maxims
2. Branding	Cover Letters, Résumés, and LinkedIn
3. Everyday Skills	Numbers, Email, and Web Writing
4. Framing and Packaging	Visual Aids and Headlines
5. Presenting	PowerPoint and Public Speaking
6. Career Advice	Job Searching

My promise to you: If you read all the materials, attend each class, and never, ever turn in a first draft, you'll set yourself up for success not only in this course, but also in your career.

The Long Version

The Professional Writing Program (P.W.P.) strengthens writing skills and prepares students for the range of writing expected of you after graduation. After completing a P.W.P. course, you'll be able to:

- ▶ Analyze a variety of professional rhetorical situations and produce appropriate texts in response.
- ▶ Understand the stages to produce competent, professional writing through planning, drafting, revising, and editing.
- ▶ Identify and implement the appropriate research methods for each writing task.
- ▶ Practice the ethical use of sources and the conventions of citation appropriate to each genre.
- ▶ Write for the intended readers of a text, and design or adapt texts to audiences who may differ in their familiarity with the subject matter.
- ▶ Demonstrate competence in Standard Written English, including grammar, sentence and paragraph structure, coherence, and document design (including the use of visuals), and be able to use this knowledge to revise texts.
- ▶ Produce cogent arguments that identify arguable issues, reflect the degree of available evidence, and take account of counterarguments.

Who I Am

What You Need to Know

1. I love teaching. I enjoy helping people learn and want you to excel. Equally important: I also want you to have fun.
2. I'm a stickler for details. Pay attention to my pet peeves and follow instructions, and you'll succeed. Don't, and you'll struggle.
3. I appreciate being challenged, so never hesitate to disagree. Similarly, pose questions whenever they occur. When in doubt, always ask; don't assume.

What's Nice to Know

By dawn, I'm in the pool, swimming with a Masters team. By daytime, I work for myself, doing two things: I deliver communication workshops (similar to those we do in class), and I help people write documents such as résumés, cover letters, and LinkedIn profiles.

Required Reading

Before each class, I expect that you'll do all the readings for that week. I've chosen each text carefully, most are short, and none is boring.

You also need to read one book for this course: SEND: Why People Email So Badly and How to Do It Better, by David Shipley and Will Schwalbe. (Neither the edition nor the format matters.) Written by two veteran editors, this short primer offers an excellent overview of the art and science of writing emails. (Such is the book's reputation that it was requested by a secretary of state while in office.)

Optional Reading

1. I write a blog about the use and abuse of language. (You may notice that some of your readings appear here.)
2. You should be reading a newspaper. If you're not, here's the next best thing: theSkimm. It's a newsletter that arrives every Monday through Friday morning and summarizes the top three stories of the day.

How to Contact Me

The best way to reach me is via email, at jrick@umd.edu. I strive to respond to all emails within 24 business hours. I also hold office hours immediately after each class, from 9:10 – 10:10 P.M., and by appointment.

Note: If you email me a few hours before an assignment is due, I may be unable to respond before the deadline. As an internet meme puts it, “Your procrastination is not my emergency.”

How I Grade

I don’t grade on a curve. Instead, in assessing your work, I’ll ask one overarching question: “Have you demonstrated mastery of the given assignment?” I’ll use the following criteria to arrive at an answer:

Grade	Description	Explanation	Suitable to Show
A	Exemplary	The text demonstrates originality, initiative, and rhetorical skill. The content is clear, thorough, and forceful, and the style is well-organized and formatted.	Your boss
B	Effective	The text generally succeeds in meeting its goals without the need for further major revisions.	Your friends
C	Satisfactory	The text is adequate but requires substantial revisions.	Your mom
D	Unsatisfactory	The text requires extensive revisions. You’ve encountered big problems.	A tutor
F	Unacceptable	The text doesn’t have enough information, does something significant inappropriately, or contains major problems.	No one

I'll convert these letters into numbers as follows:

Letter	A+	A	A-	B+	B	B-	C+	C	C-	D+	D	D-	F
Number	100	96	93	89	86	83	79	76	73	69	66	63	0

I'll then calculate your final grade as follows:

Letter	A+	A	A-	B+	B	B-	C+	C	C-	D+	D	D-	F
Number	$\geq 96.5$	$\geq 93.5$	$\geq 89.5$	$\geq 86.5$	$\geq 83.5$	$\geq 79.5$	$\geq 76.5$	$\geq 73.5$	$\geq 69.5$	$\geq 66.5$	$\geq 63.5$	$\geq 59.5$

I'll break down your final grade as follows:

Assignment	Notes	Percentage
1. Participation	This includes attendance, revisions, and visits to the writing center.	10
2. Pass/Fail Documents	This includes syllabus feedback, myths and maxims, quizzes, blurb, e-portfolio, and peer reviews.	15
3. SWOT Analysis		25
4. Branding Portfolio		25
5. Presentation		25

Revisions

After you receive back your graded work, I encourage you to revise and resubmit it. Revisions are optional, but they have several specific requirements; for details, see the document on the Enterprise Learning Management System (ELMS) titled, “Revisions.”

Absences

Do you know what a “smart” quotation mark is? Should you write “25 September,” “September 25,” or “September 25th”? Is the serial comma important? The only way to be sure is to attend each class in real time. After all, there’s only so much you can get from reading; true education blends independent studying with discussion.

Indeed, because we meet only once a week, missing one class is like missing three classes. Therefore, repeated absences will affect your ability to excel.

Finally, if you miss a class, it’s your responsibility to make-up any quizzes and to get the notes from a classmate. To help you, I’ve created a list of the materials we cover each week; see the “Recaps” document on ELMS.

Policies

The Classroom

1. Punctuality. Class starts at 6:30. If you arrive after 6:30, I will mark you as absent, so that I can shift my full attention to teaching rather than continuing to take roll. Also, meetings that start late are less productive.

At the same time, this policy has an easy loophole: If you’re late, just see me in person before the given class ends, and I’ll change your status to “present.”

2. Quizzes. If you miss a quiz, it’s your responsibility to make it up the next time you’re in class; otherwise, you’ll earn an F.

3. Participation. This course is highly interactive; I call on people at random and strive to ensure that everyone participates.

- 4. Exit Tickets. At the end of each class, you're required to write a quick "exit ticket." This is a chance for you to provide feedback in real time. For example: What did you enjoy the most? Was anything I said confusing? Any follow-up questions?

These tickets are anonymous and are not graded.

- 5. Computers. Studies show that students learn better when they take notes by hand. As a professor at Dartmouth has observed, "The act of typing effectively turns the note-taker into a transcription zombie, while the imperfect recordings of the pencil-pusher reflect and excite a process of integration, creating more textured and effective modes of recall." Accordingly, please don't use a laptop, tablet, or phone to take notes. Instead, reserve your device for our (frequent) group exercises.
- 6. Food. While drinking during class is fine, please don't eat; it's distracting to others. You'll have time to snack during our break, which we'll take every class after about 60 minutes.

Homework

- 7. ELMS. For your transparency and my organization, I don't accept assignments via email; you need to submit all homework via ELMS.
- 8. Deadlines. Homework is due at the beginning of the given class. If you're absent that day, you're still responsible for handing in your work on time. Assignments that are late will be penalized by a full letter (for example, from an "A" to a "B") every 24 hours.
- 9. Resubmissions. I typically grade homework as it comes in. Therefore, if you submit multiple copies of an assignment, I may have already started marking up the first one. In other words: I reserve the right to disregard resubmissions.
- 10. Format. For consistency with your peers and my own ease of use, you must submit all work as Microsoft Word documents. (While Google Docs and Adobe Acrobat are helpful, Microsoft Office is the de facto software of corporate America.)
- 11. File Names. Want to make my job easier? Then use the following syntax when naming your Word docs:

[Last Name] - [Name of Assignment]

Thus:

Smith - Myths and Maxims

Other

12. Exceptions. Here's my policy in a nutshell: If you communicate, I can be flexible. For example, if you email me a day before an assignment is due and ask for an extension, I can offer you options. But if you email me an hour beforehand — or, worse, afterward — then, out of fairness to your peers, my options are limited.

Put another way: If any of my policies present a problem for you, please let me know as soon as possible, and I will happily accommodate you on a case-by-case basis.

13. Conferences. As indicated in the schedule below, twice during the semester, we have conferences instead of class. During a conference, we'll meet one on one — via Zoom — to discuss your work.

14. Tutors. I strongly encourage you to use the university's writing, oral-communication, and career centers. For free, trained tutors will consult with you about any text or presentation at any stage of the process. If you use the centers, be sure to do two things: (a) Ask your tutor to email me, so I can credit you appropriately; and (b) Bring the pertinent assignment sheet and any handouts to your appointment; this context will help your tutor help you.

15. Extra Readings. I'll often send emails with links to interesting and timely articles. I hope you'll not only read this material, but also reply with reflections. (If you don't participate enough in class, this is an opportunity to lift that part of your final grade.)

16. Cheating. I'll make this simple: Don't steal (whether from another human or a robot). When in doubt, give credit. For specifics, see U.M.D.'s policy on academic integrity.

17. Disabilities. If you need an academic accommodation, please send me your paperwork from U.M.D.'s Accessibility and Disability Service as soon as possible.

18. Inclusion. It's your right to expect, and my responsibility to foster, a positive learning environment based on open communication, mutual respect, and nondiscrimination. If you have concerns related to these issues, please contact the Committee of Anti-Racism, Accessibility, Respect, Equity, and Social Justice.

19. Self-Identification. During our first class, I'll share my name and pronouns and invite you to do the same. Your pronouns, gender, race, sexuality, religion, and disability, among all aspects of your identity, are yours to disclose if and when you want. I'll do my best to address and refer to you according to your preferences, and to ensure that your classmates do the same.

Homework Templates

Because the format I use for each assignment is so specific, we'll walk through a detailed template for each one during the preceding class.

Note: The templates are for format, not content. If your content is as thin as that displayed on a template, you'll be unhappy with your grade.

If you'd like to see homework from a previous semester that's earned an "A," please email me.